

How Much Has Hurricane Sandy Cost The City in Overtime Spending?

From October 29 through December 24, 42 city agencies have reported spending a total of $154.1 million on Sandy-related overtime for staff. Nearly 90% of the reported expenditures have been for workers in just four agencies: police, sanitation, fire, and parks.

Prepared by Martin Davis
New York City Independent Budget Office

SOURCE: New York City payroll data

NOTES: Does not include New York City Housing Authority, Metropolitan Transportation Authority, or Health and Hospitals Corporation. Overtime also includes holiday pay. Numbers may not add due to rounding.